“Carolyn Arnold’s love for law enforcement and providing an accurate depiction of their job is clearly evident in her writing... It’s this enthusiasm paired with her knack for storytelling and her realistic portrayal of police work that makes her an author that mystery readers would enjoy reading, including those with a law enforcement background.”

— Carl J. Harper, Training Officer, ERT (SWAT),
Lower Merion Township, Pennsylvania

In a painfully honest portrayal of life and loss in the police force, bestselling author Carolyn Arnold returns to the Detective Madison Knight series with IN THE LINE OF DUTY (September 29, 2016). This seventh installment throws Madison into the most heart-wrenching and personal case she’s had to face yet.

Officer Barry Weir had an hour to go on his shift, and he was more than ready to get back to his wife and kids. But he wouldn’t make it home that day.

When news of Weir’s murder reaches the precinct, the Stiles Police Department is more than a little shaken. And while Detective Madison Knight and her fellow officers are grief-stricken, they are determined to seek justice for their fallen brother. The loss hits the group hard, but no one as much as Troy Matthews, Weir’s childhood friend and Madison’s boyfriend. But instead of leaning on the others, Troy isolates himself just when they need one another the most.

As Madison and her team follow the investigation into the town’s seedy underbelly, their case gets more convoluted and dangerous. A gang shooting, a hate crime, or a targeted kill—the possibilities seem to keep multiplying. And their time is running out as the threat starts to spread.

With a gripping narrative and acute accuracy, Arnold brings the compassion and humanity of the police force to light. IN THE LINE OF DUTY explores more than just a crime scene; it illuminates the camaraderie and loyalty behind the badge.
